

Kathy Ferrara

A graduate of the Vesper George School of Art in Boston, Kathy was a fashion illustrator and retail artist for thirty years before devoting all her time to fine art. Her commercial work has given her strong drawing and design skills which carry over into her dynamic watercolors. She has studied with several highly-respected artists including the late Edward Harrigan and Marshall Joyce. She has had several one-man shows and has won numerous awards.

Her style is rich in color and depth, with impeccable attention to detail. She draws with precision, yet paints with a soft elegance, drawing you into her paintings, visually wetting the appetite. She strives to awaken the senses with her paintings, which, in her opinion, is the very essence and purpose of art.
